Vija Celmins. Ediz. Inglese Lane Relyea 2004-12 Vija Celmin's artworks testify to her undying fascination with the world around her, whether the commonplace objects in her studio; her childhood memories of wartorn Latvia; the natural landscapes of her adopted California; or the pebbles beneath her feet. Primarily a painter of still-life and landscape, Celmins is associated with 1960s Pop art, and often uses photographs as source material to create her signature 'impossible images', such as just-fired revolvers or exploding airplanes. Temporarily abandoning painting in the 1970s, Celmins turned her attention to drawing exquisite graphite seascapes and other vast natural landscapes.

Exposing ELE Rebecca Gober 2014-06-06 "I honestly wish I could believe that things will end perfectly, with one big bright happy ending. But these last few days have taught me that life isn't made up of shiny moments. Life is hard; it's gritty. One day you are filled with joy and the next, you are crawling through the muddy trenches with no inkling of when you might be able to climb your way back up again." ~Willow Mosby, Exposing ELE Can Willow expose Project ELE for what it really is? Just when Willow Mosby thought that her life might return to normal, her parents and Tony are ruthlessly abducted, along with many other victims from the shelter. In an effort to save them, Willow has to take a stand against the darkness brought forth by the masterminds of Project ELE. In the midst of all of the chaos, Willow is faced with some impossible choices. Is Willow strong enough to make these decisions? How can she decide between the man she first loved and the man who has sworn to protect her? When certain events are set in motion, Willow finds herself caught in the center of an even darker, more diabolical scheme than she could have ever imagined. With her abilities rapidly growing, Willow finds herself more powerful than ever before. What she hadn't realized is that someone else has noticed her power, and they will stop at nothing to get it. At the First Clear Sight Rezi van Lankveld 2011 Rezi van Lankveld's paintings strikingly balance the shift between pictorial scene and creative process. The artist's working procedure has remained the same throughout her career; oil paint is poured onto wooded boards or, in the case of the newer works, onto canvas, until an image emerges, creating a spontaneous ambiguity to the pictorial form captured by the artist and spectator alike. Graduating from Jan van Eyck Akademie, Maastricht in 1999, the artist's most recent exhibition at The Approach in 2010 demonstrated a move from the vacant spaces of van Lankveld's earlier paintings, towards pieces in which the pictorial elements reach out to the edges of the canvas, creating forms which rise and fall rhythmically across the work. This publication presents a selection of van Lankveld's work from 2003-10 for the first time.

Accompanying full colour illustrations of van Lankveld's work are texts by Leen Bedaux, Jeremiah Day, Melissa Gronlund and Zlatko Wurzberg.

Haim Steinbach Haim Steinbach 2000 Along with Robert Gober and Jeff Koons, New York-based Haim Steinbach is one of the most renowned exponents of the late 70s art movement which endeavored to revamp the post-Duchamp tradition of ready-mades in the face of a rising wave of neo-expressionism. Steinbach has become known for his "thing altars," carefully manufactured shelves containing borrowed or purchased objects that take on new meaning in the context of their surroundings, recalling Robert Smithson's notions of "site" and "non-site." This new book in the Cantz Series documents a Berlin-specific installation by the artist. Steinbach, born to German-Jewish parents in Israel, stayed in the former East Germany for the first time, visiting families all over Berlin and borrowing individual objects or arrangements which he then transferred to an art space. In doing so the artist became the curator of a sort of group exhibition of "collected collections" which interact in surprising ways in their new space.

Twintig jaar geleden zouden Rosie en hij samen weglopen om in Londen een nieuw leven te beginnen, maar op het afgesproken tijdstip kwam ze niet opdagen. Was ze alleen vertrokken? Had ze een ander? Hij is er nooit achter gekomen. Frank keert terug naar de arbeidersbuurt in Dublin waar ze destijds woonden, en waar zijn in zijn ogen nog altijd even verschrikkelijke ouders, broers en zussen en Rosies familie nog steeds wonen. Kort daarop wordt Rosies lijk gevonden. In de maanden die volgen komt Frank ontstellende dingen te weten over zijn familie, wat er destijds gebeurd is, en uiteindelijk over zichzelf. Er ontrolt zich een familiedrama vol ellende waarbij iedereen betrokken lijkt te zijn.
